Project Title: Hanbok

I would like to build a site with multiple pages that highlights Korean traditional clothing: hanbok. I think it would be interesting to play with the placement of the navigation to reflect the properties of fabric such as texture and its flexibility. I imagine the content could be organized with an initial historical trajectory with a backdrop of materials and cultural roles.

- Introduction: Introduce the history and transformation of hanbok throughout various dynasties and time periods. This would give brief review of hanbok designs
- Construction and Design: I would elaborate on the different components of the traditional wear. This would also include production and the materials used.
- Social Role: I would elaborate the social hierarchy these garments played and the symbols on the clothing.
- Occasions: This page would give insight on when and where these traditional clothings were worn including cultural events or gatherings. This would include modern implications.
- Sources: this would contain all of my sources
